To make sure that the remedy was responsible for this happy result she also tried it on her brother and several of her neighbors. It was successful in every case. None of them has touched a drop of intoxicating liquor since. She now wishes everyone who has drunkenness in their homes to try this simple remedy for she feels sure that it will do as much for others as it has for her. It can be given secretly if desired, and without cost she will gladly and willingly tell you what it given secrety in desired, and without cost she will gladly and willingly tell you what it is. Order of Elks, in honor of its deceased members, four of whom passed away during the year ISII.

The services were attended by a large crowd, the auditorium of its home being taxed to its capacity.

Representative Augustus O. Stanley, of Henderson, Ky., delivered the annual memorial address, which was listened to with close attention by his hearers.

He took for his subject Charles Algernon Sidney Vivian, founder of the order of Elks. The speaker said this man started it fifty years ago in Baltimore under the name of the "Jolly Corks," and his greatest ambition in life was for the happiness of his fellow man. The speaker paid a glowing tribute to the cardinal principle of the order—charity—which he declared was dispensed with a willing hand at all times. A resume of the order was then given.

The hall was very prettily decorated for the order was then given.

The hall was very prettily decorated for the order was banked with palms and ferns, and the background was of American flags and purple, the latter the Elks' colors. Suspended above the stage in the background was a large clock dial with the hour hand pointing to eleven, significant to all Elks. During the progress of the ritualistic work of the order eleven strokes were given, after which the names of the deceased members of the order, twenty in all, were called by the secretary, W. M. Donnelly. As each name was called a star which was suspended in the background was lighted, and at the end all twenty stars were illuminated by twenty locandescent lights representing eternal wenty stars were illuminated by twenty neundescent lights representing eternal a wreath of white immorfelles, on which was written in purple letters, "Absent Brothera." Entwined in the wreath was a large Elk head.

The various chairs of the officers scattered at points throughout the hall were surrounded by arches entwined in purple and laurel leaves, which, with tiny incandessent lights, made them very attractions. and harrel leaves, which, with tiny in-candescent lights, made them very attrac-tive. Mottoes of the order in white im-mortelles with blue letters were suspend-ed above each chair as follows: "Char-ity," Justice, and "Brotherly Love." On the window stills throughout the hall were lecorations of paims and tiny ferns. During the evening musical selections were given by an orchestra, under the lirection of Prof. Leon Cohen, of Wash-ngton.

of the sort that is read about in fiction, Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Dougherty recently celebrated their golden wedding anniversary at their home at Rodeo, N. Mex. But one witness of the marriage is allive to-day, and he, James W. Young of La Crosse, told the story of the wedding, which follows:

"William Dougherty was born in Vermillon County, Indians, and so was his wife, whose waiden name was Mary Catherine Hiller. It seems that at 4-be time of the wedding the girl's parents objected to the young man's attentions, which made it necessary for several other young fellows and myself to help the prospective bridegroom out of the difficulty.

"We got a skiff and rowed up the river to the girl's house, where we quietly got the rout of the house and into the boat. We then rowed down through French Slough and up to the north side, where Mr. Dougherty was waiting for us. We seen had Justice of the Peace Winston on the scene, and the necessary ceremony was performed."
